“ I have know Dale and his parents for many years and he was the salt of the earth. We need more men like Dake today. I'm sad for his family and I know how it hurts.

Dale has joined his mom in rest.

Love, prayers mercy and grace to each of you.

Twyla and Chester. You are both and your families in my prayers. Dale is rejoicing with his mother now. Wish I could have come but you know I am going through cancer and chemo myself. God less you.

Love,
Corrine and Clyde

“ Best memory I have was when Dale started working at Piggly Wiggly when we were still in High School. A buddy of ours was training Dale on how to hang the new poster signs for the weekly deals on the front windows of the grocery store. Keep in mind the paper signs were probably three feet tall and probably 2 feet wide. After Dale had taken down the old signs and got the new ones hung up, he asked his “buddy” (who I will not name) where the old signs needed to go. We threw the old signs in the garbage, but Dale’s “buddy” told him they went in the back of the Assistant Managers car. What a surprise she got when she got into her car and couldn’t see out of her back window because Dale and waded up those 10-12 paper signs and threw them in her back seat. She was a good sport about it and took them home with her, but she made us clean them out the next night at work. I’ve probably never laughed as hard as I did seeing Dale’s reaction when he found out he was set up lol.
