“ I'm so sorry for your loss. I came to know Cotton at Winco and gained not only a great deal of respect for him as a man but also gained a great friend. I like most that worked for him had a favorite nic-name that he gave them and the minute I walked in the door the very first day he called me yo yo and from then on that was what he called me. This world would be so much better place if more were like him, especially in the business world if boss's would learn to treat people with the respect and dignity that Cotton gave everyone they would learn the work place would not only be a much better place to work but also much more productive.##imported-begin##Chris Sibley##imported-end##
