“ My Uncle Lee was one of the most accomplished men I know. He was an excellent businessman, hunter and fisherman but he was best at being an awesome uncle even when he was bouncing all the kids off the ceiling of my grandparents home. We would all squeal with terrified delight then get back in line for our next turn. He happily tossed us around until he was exhausted.

He had a twinkle about him; just look at any picture of Uncle Lee and that twinkle in his eye would tell you he was just thinking of mischief. I'll miss that twinkle! I'll miss that mischief!

He loved his family and was at times a hard taskmaster on his kids but he and Aunt Edna molded self sufficient, productive children. Then their children had the right tools to raise their own amazing children...and their legacy lives on.

Uncle Lee had a special place in his heart for my dad and my dad feels the same way. Together, those two, made short order of any quail, squirrel or fish that came within an arms distance. I can't remember if Dad ever talked Uncle Lee into grabbling...maybe Uncle Lee was too smart for that.

I love you Uncle Lee and will miss you, rest in peace. dale
