“ Rest in peace, my dear sister. I was looking at the picture of you as a toddler in mom's arms with your dad in his Army uniform. It's not dated but had to be 1943 or early 1944. What a life you have lived. Upon mom's passing you took over as matriarch and became the glue holding the family together. You always had everyone's back. I will listen for your whispers on the wind and think of you every time I see a cardinal. With love, your brother Carl
